

Mission to Liberia, Africa Foya Village

Conference Day 4 AM

Tony:

This is the last session for the conference. The ushers had to guard the doors AND windows to keep people other than pastors and church workers from coming in. The hunger and desperation in this place is something to behold. After an explanation of what they could expect from the “laying on of hands” we began to impart and prophecy over every one of the pastors. They were mightily touched!

When we finished with the pastors there were still hundreds of church workers that wanted impartation. We set up a ‘fire tunnel’, got the praise team cranking and started the people thru. An amazing thing happened. As we were getting near the end of the people many of the folks that were kept outside the building started climbing in thru the windows (which are actually just holes in the wall) and getting in line. This went on for quite a while until we had laid hands on maybe a couple of thousand people. What a day!

Evening Crusade:

Prayer Intercessors: Please pray with me. The team (including the trained pastors) would have everything that is needed to clearly bring a life changing touch from Jesus to these desperate people!

Just about the same number of people tonight. Several thousand coming hours ahead to be as close to the front as possible. Many coming as soon as it got dark. With very little soaking time today the team came with not one word of knowledge. OK, Lord, now what? It seemed good to me and The Holy Spirit to just have the people put their hands on bad body parts and mass pray. We did that and then asked how many could physically verify that they had been totally miraculously healed. There were about 50 people that received a miracle standing in the crowd. We asked them to come forward to give testimony. As they came up on the stage to give testimony more kept coming, having received a miracle without any of our hands on them. When I felt the atmosphere was right I stopped the testimonies and we gave a salvation call. Again THOUSANDS OF LIVES COMING TO JESUS! I have absolutely no idea how many, there was just a lot.

We then opened it up for general prayer. We lined up the 70 member prayer team and again they tried to let just a small number of people in. This time I was up on the platform and I watched as the ushers got run over. I looked at the faces of the people rushing to the front, oh my, I'm glad I wasn't down there in their way. I really felt for the crippled and disabled that got pushed aside. I know that Jesus doesn't push them aside and one of these nights something is going to break for them. I was with two other pastors tonight and we were pressed in even worse than last night. It was literally hard to breathe! If you can picture this: hands coming from every angle to touch you, to pull at your clothes, to grab a piece of your skin, voices crying out, "please, me, please, my baby, my baby, please help my baby. At one point in the evening a portal opened up around me and I saw about 40 blind and deaf mutes miraculously healed very quickly. As they shouted out praises to God for their miracle, the people around us pressed in harder. We wanted to get them up to the platform to give testimony for all to hear, but there was no way. Perhaps tomorrow night. I loved the mothers that brought their blind and deaf babies and young children. I loved the moment when momma recognized the miracle that had just happened and her child could not see her or hear her for the first time. Oh God, it is worth spending all to be here to see You do this for even one of these!

EVENING CRUSADE PM

Bobby:

I spent the whole of the crusade tonight filming the testimonies and prayer time. There seemed to be more resistance tonight than last night but God was still moving. We're going to have lot's of film to show you when we get back. Maybe one of the more impressive things you'll see is my new dance moves. LOL! OK....maybe not, but my hips have actually started to display some level of coordination with the rhythm which is a large step forward for a white man.

The crowd was about the same tonight but I think we are managing to get through most of the people who need prayer. We have two more nights so I'm sure everyone who needs prayer will get prayed for.

P.S. As a side note. The lady with the C shaped leg that got healed was running around the village this morning and telling everyone how Jesus healed her and they need to serve Jesus! She also told all of her family that they have to serve Jesus or get out of her house. Pastor Ketter says that the whole village was shaken by her healing. Apparently she was hit by a car 6 years ago and she went from hospital to hospital and church to church and no one could do anything for her. When she got healed the whole village was astounded. God is so good!!

Megan:

Man, today was busy! We went over to the pastor's conference this morning for the last morning meeting. We have only a few minutes drive to the church from the house. I like this town, everything is pretty close together and almost everyone walks to wherever they are going. This morning's meeting was impartation for just the pastors and leaders. I can't tell you how hard the ushers were working to keep it that way either! When we got there, as we were walking in through the foyer area into the sanctuary, the people were grabbing onto us trying to get inside, and others would just tap you and point at a body part and then at you as you walk by. They just want you to pray for them. IT makes you want to stop and just pray for them, but if you do then they all surround you and get very pushy. Anyway the impartation went good and we got everyone imparted to.

Evening crusade:

Tonight was the second crusade. I really couldn't tell you if there were more people or not cause it gets to the point where you just can't see how far out the crowd goes. It's really amazing! We have been going down in the roped off area to dance with the kids during worship. Just in these last to crusades I'm sure I've breathed in about a pound of dirt! Haha... It makes it hard to breathe. The kids get a cyclone type thing going in the middle with us, running around in circles. You almost can't see through the thick dust kicked up. After worship, I teamed up with my dad and another local pastor as an interpreter. The whole team tried to stay close together tonight because we got kinda spread out last night and couldn't find each other. We prayed for a lot of deaf mutes tonight, and cripples. I really can't remember everything that happened. We were all smooshed together up front with just enough room to spin in a circle with your arms held tight to your chest. Good thing none of us are claustrophobic! I was kinda in the middle of everything so I went back and forth agreeing in prayer with my Dad and another pastors, and praying for a few myself. Towards the end of the service there was a girl behind of me that received prayer from a pastor. She said she was oppressed by demons and wanted to be free. She almost right away started manifesting almost right away and about knocked me over. My dad was there next to me praying and the pastor asked him to help. While he was praying and shutting down the demon she was rolling around on the ground and stopped on my feet. I could feel her breathing really heavy on my feet. She finally stopped and they got her up and finished the deliverance.

The little deaf mute girl I was praying for last night came again tonight and was next to me, so I prayed for her again with my dad. She is so cute! While we were praying she started moving her mouth, more than the night before. Mrs. Kathy had the anointing for the deaf mutes tonight so we had her pray for her also. By the end of the night she was up on stage speaking loudly into the microphone and smiling. Her first word was Jesus! Her Grandmother was just thrilled to hear her talk and to be able to talk to her. It was really neat! I was pretty exhausted by the end but it was all worth it!

Casey:

Today was the last day for the conference so that only meant one thing... impartation. All week I was wondering how we were going to pull this one off. The building was once again packed to the gills as worship began. During worship they instructed us to pray for and with each other for God to bless our last meeting. Harvey and I were praying together which turned out to be a great thing. Well in my eyes anyways. Whenever you put two or more persons together that enjoy drinking in the spirit things are always good. Some might say we were being rowdy but hey it's all in good fun. We did share too, but not with small cups but rather a huge bowl. It held more ☺. It was great to get all filled up before we prayed for impartation. We prayed for just the Pastors first one on one. That took quite a while and when you would look out over the crowd and see how many leaders and church workers were left waiting oh boy. Tony had an awesome idea to finish off praying for everyone else by fire tunnel. That was great and we had several Pastors join us in the tunnel praying. They really seemed to enjoy it too even though I think they never seen anything like this before. It still took close to an hour to finish praying for them but no one was missed or left out. Praise God this is so much fun. Please keep praying for us we are now in full time crusade mode. Blessings ~ ><> ~

Evening Crusade:

Hey you'll be amazed that alter and presence are spelled right because Arlene's typing this for me. Thanks Arlene! Tonight was great!!! But the most memorable thing about the whole evening was having the honor to be able to minister right alongside my daughter. This is something that I never thought I'd be able to do out in the middle of Africa! Praise and worship time was a lot of fun because we got to dance with the locals but I am like so white that I can't carry the rhythm and keep up so Bobby and I just danced with a little old man and he still busted a move better than us but at least we had fun. It's amazing how much dust you can actually ingest all night long. During ministry time the crowd was pressing in like every other time because the hunger level is so intense that they all just want a touch from God. For most of the evening I had to work without a translator so it made ministry a little tougher but God was still moving powerfully. One of the healings that took place was for a man that was in one of those hand-wheel carts. It's like a wheel chair but it's like a bicycle trike with a crank you pedal with your hands. Kathy prayed for the same man the day before. Anyways, he has scoliosis's and spin bifida. When Kathy prayed for him the day before, he had started to feel tingling in his legs which were about the size of my wrists. Basically bone and skin. Well, last night when I prayed for him, he received more healing and received feeling all the way to the bottom of his feet. He even stood up for the first time without using crutches or holding on to anything. He couldn't walk yet but I know it's coming because he came prepared cause he had his boots on. His faith was there because I saw his boots on. Awhile after that one of the pastors were praying for a young girl right behind me who was demonically oppressed. She began to manifest and fell to the dirt. The pastor didn't really know what to do so he asked for help so I explained to him how to take the authority but I'm not sure if he was quite ready for something like this so I just took over and got down in the dirt and spoke in the girls ear and shut the demon down. I didn't know her name or speak the local language so I knew this was going to be a challenge. So all I could do was pray blessings over her and asked for the Holy Spirit to take over and sovereignly deliver her. I held her in my arms for a long time down in the dirt just speaking blessings over her until she came to and we were able to ask her how she was feeling and what happened to her. She said the devil always comes and takes over her body when she manifests and that all she sees is the devil while she has no control. But after praying over her she said she saw Jesus come to her and set her free. Praise God for sovereign deliverances!!! Sometimes you just gotta get down and dirty but that's okay. That's what they make laundry soap for. The rest of the evening as the crowd continued to press in, things just seemed to pop really fast and healing was coming quickly. It felt like I had my own zone where if the enemy came in my zone he couldn't stay. It's like the enemy knew after that deliverance how much authority has been entrusted to me.

YEEHAWW!!! Hey Lou, it was slammin! Even after they told everyone to go home, I continued to pray all the way to the vehicle. It was an awesome evening. Thank you to everyone who is praying for us, please do keep praying. ~><~ Blessings.

Kathy:

Sliding in after Casey again, hmmm think I found a nitch here lol. Impartation service was fun, and extremely tiring. It was a great idea to finish off the couple hundred others with a fire tunnel. Another awesome thingy happened too. Emmanuel from Sierre Leonne showed up today. I've never met him in person but I have spoken to him on the phone for a long time now, it is great finally getting to know him. He joined us for dinner and is staying in the house we are in with the pastors from the other regions represented in this conference. Well, I'm making this one short gotta get ready for the crusade. Blessing to all and please please keep praying.

Debbie:

Impartation day! Now I know why they say it's their favorite day at these conferences. We started off with just the pastors and each one of us imparted to each one of them. It took a good long time. The prophetic words started to come and I was very excited about that. As I imparted to them, I was getting prophetic words for some of them. Quite a bit of them, but not all. After we were done with the pastors we made a fire tunnel for their church assistants that attended with them. That went by quicker but it still took a long time because people from outside kept coming in to get their piece of the action. We were all spent by the time we were done, but it was so awesome to impart to these pastors!

Crusade Thursday PM

Kathy:

Back at the crusade and WOW WOW WOW WOW, ummm ok so you all have heard that word one too many times in these reports, but you really can't explain it. This night the healings were just coming so fast at first. We got all set up with our Pastors and started praying. The Pastor I had was already moving very well in the prayer, and he even went into deliverance with a boy (well I'm pretty sure that's what he was doing cause I don't know Kissi) so I stayed nearby for questions and started praying also. The first person I prayed for was a deaf mute woman, God just made it so easy – deaf and dumb spirits go in Jesus name and it went!!! Next person in line was a mom holding a beautiful little girl who was also deaf and mute, so same prayer same response 😊 WOW Jesus you ROCK!!!! As far as I can remember I believe I prayed for at least 15 deaf, mute or deaf/mute people most of them children. The man who I was helping learn was seeing blind eyes open and mute spirits shut down. Casey caught on that I had that anointing and had me pray for some that needed that final prayer for the healing to be 100 percent. One after another ears opened and brothers and sisters professing Jesus as their Saviour or praising His name for their release. Jesus is so AWESOME!!!! I stuck to praying for deaf/mutes until the anointing lifted and then I prayed for woman with blind eyes who was completely restored. I saw stomachs healed, joints healed, headaches relieved and had the privilege of praying for many youth who wanted prayer to be able to understand their school work better. What a night!!!! Thank You Jesus, Thank You Jesus!!! Thanks to all you prayer warriors.

Debbie

The night started off rockin...we had a lot of people getting healed and set free. I had one women who had been tormented by demons to the point where they would throw her to the ground. We walked her through deliverance and she was set free! Stomach pains and chest pains are very common here and everyone we prayed for received instant healing. One lady had never received Jesus into her heart so we walked her through salvation!!! That's the greatest miracle right there!!! Another one received into the Kingdom of God! We had many blind eyes open also! God is so amazing and I am so blessed to be called to do this!

To the ones who are praying for me...keep it up...the enemy isn't liking what I am doing...not at all and is coming at me in all directions...but our God is bigger!!!

Arlene:

Today was impartation day. Yeah. That just happened. Prayed for all the pastors lined them up and then we did fire tunnel. I love it. It rocks. Anywayz, much dancing music Jesus...ya know. Haha. Night crusade was where it was at. Here it is...of course P.Tony talked for a bit and then he had everyone with pressures in the chest. Haha. yeah I didn't know what was coming but as soon as he mentioned pressures in the chest and had everyone raise their hands all I could think of was that in the midst of all these people...MASS HYSTERIA. I was wrong thank ya Jesus. He had them pray for themselves and everyone whose pressures moved to come up and testify. God is great!!! Anywayz, P.Tony sent us down to verify and some of them didn't understand and just kinda came up and I got those people. I first teamed up with the pastor who first interpreted for P.Tony. Pastor John...dude he was FUNNN!!! We started out with this one man who had chest pains. Prayed and BAM it was gone. Yea dude. For real. Moved on to a woman with asthma. Prayed and BAM it was also gone. Me and her took a jog around the circle we were at. I had P.John ask if she could've done that with ease like she did and I guess not. YEAH GODDDD!!! They called P.John to interpret onstage so we had to part. THEN...I teamed up with one of the pastors who also sang with the praise band. He rocked it!!! P. Harris. WORDDDD!!! We got right to it and there were sooooo many we prayed for delivered and healed. Yeah God!!! Out of all the prayers and all the miracles I can't help but remember this one man. As soon as we finished praying for this one woman and she was completely healed. I just keep hearing his voice in my head. He said "Please sister, I need prayer. I need prayer. My knees and my legs. They pain me. Please sister. Pray for me." God, the hunger is just so awesome you can't help but want the most for these people. Well I looked at this man and I asked him how bad he wanted healing. How bad he wanted it and if he believed God would heal him tonight. And if he wanted to be set free. Yes was the answer of course...so P.Harris and I jumped right in. EVERY PAIN IN HIS BODY WAS GONE. He had been living with this pain since 1993. I was three years old then mind you. YEAH and God showed up and took his pain. OMG the look on his face, was priceless. It was great. It was worth it to see just him healed. We tackled blind eyes, yeah they were totally healed. Like 3 of them were in one eye and God totally totally totally opened up their eyes. Yeah dude. Forreal!!! Anywayz, at the end of the night, I face planted into the bugs on the stage. All straight. Learned how to say "old man, bald, shiny head." → Falloh Timbeleh Ningla. Yep, you guessed it. Bobby and I are totally best friends. It's awesome. You're jealous I know it. Lol. That was the night. It rocks. I love Jesus yoooo. Miss y'all lots. Thanks for the prayers mannnn. Bless you all!!!

TRANSLATION FOR ADULTS (by Bobby)

Today was impartation day. It was really swell and the fire tunnel was lots of fun. Lots of fun music to dance to. I give it 10!

During the words of knowledge at the crusade Tony mentioned pressure in the chest. Little did I know that the translator changed it 'someone with 9 toes on their left foot' to avoid 2,000 people rushing the stage. Myself and the rest of the team dropped our rocks and we're all friends now. Noone came forward.

God healed a woman with asthma then a man with pains in his entire body. That was really exciting! These people are sooooo hungry.

I saw God heal three people who were blind in one eye and and it was amazing! Made me feel bad for ever playing pirate when I was younger.

I don't really understand why the Liberian people like termites. I sampled one on the stage along with some other bugs I face planted on and they really don't appeal to me at all. Oh well...when in Liberia....

I found out how to say 'Bobby is the most handsome bald guy in Africa' in the Kissi language. I repeated it to Bobby and he just said "I know". He can be a jerk sometimes.

Miss my family a lot. See everyone soon!

Emmanuel:

Praise God for what he did. There was a woman who was bent over. She could not walk because of serious stomach pain. After the prayer the pain was gone away.

A man had a wound on his two legs. This happened to him when he was working on his farm he stepped on something had has not been able walk every since. We prayed and he is healed and can walk.

A man blind from youth, 45 years, we prayed he was healed. He was jumping around the place thank God for his great work. He also had a urinary blockage that is now healed. He is praising God for what he has done.

Harvey

This morning was the impartation service and about all that can be said is wow. It was long but always a blessing to give away what you have.

Tonight's crusade was bigger than the night before. There was an endless sea of people coming up for prayer. I lost count of the number of heart problems and deaf ears and eye problems that I prayed for. There were a few headaches and stomachaches and backaches that helped encourage me because they left right away. There were some people faking it to get prayer but it was very rewarding to see the ones that really needed it get healed. The thing I remember the most is the number of people who walked away without seeing the miracle they came for. I know God touched them and that something happened in their lives but it's hard to watch them walk away without seeing physical change. After praying for several hours the crowd seemed to be getting a little more unruly and the anointing didn't seem to be there for me any longer so I went up and video-ed the rest of the evening. Thanks to all the prayer warriors! Later.
