

Tony:

Thanks to all for praying His Kingdom come in this part of Uganda. The pastors and church leaders have all been extremely receptive and open to having their theology changed. They are saying "we have never seen such things; we have never seen such power of God!" Some have committed to training and sending as a new focus.

On the travel to this new village this morning we had two flat tires at the same time. The way it works here is everyone walking or riding their bikes by stops to see if they can help. A motorcycle rider put one of the blown tires on the back of his bike and went into town, had it fixed and drove it back to us. Our "schedule" has been different every day. This is a great place to learn to rest and trust in the Lord's timing.

Conference was a lot of fun as they got so excited when we started demonstrating with them doing the praying. Six volunteers that were sick saw themselves receive a miraculous healing as we went thru working with Holy Spirit. One of the ladies had a tumor disappear and that is always so cool to watch! Casey then said "hey, why don't we do impartation prayer for anointing now since we have crusade today", so we did and there was lots of encouragement and prophecy.

At the crusade site, it was on a little flat section of ground on a mountain side. People were sitting all over the rocks up the mountain side. It was like balcony seats. I danced with the children and after the initial shock of being near a white person, they started mimicking my moves, it was so much fun. I'm sure I was entertainment for many, but I know I was blessing the Lord!

Casey led us again with a quick shot to the heart and then gave one word and about 15 people came up so we started with the demonstration. Healings were lighting speed again tonight. As the people started giving testimony of what had just happened to them others started pressing in on us. An old lady was at the edge of the stage and refused to let any of the pastors pray for her, she said it had to be that "white man!" OK, so I got down to the ground and found out she had about everything wrong with her. She said she did not know the Lord but was waiting for me to bring her to Him. OK, she comes into the kingdom and then we thanked the Lord for touching her and instantly she is healed of everything. If you could only have seen this old lady dance with joy.

Again tonight there were many salvations and there were people that after telling us of their ailment, we would ask them to check it out, even before prayer, and Glory to God, they had received a miracle while standing there waiting for prayer. What an awesome God we have!! The looks on their faces, wow!

Another lady had heart problems and had somehow damaged her back. I just began to pray for her and the look on her face was one of excruciating pain. I stopped praying and tried to find out where the pain was but she just wasn't answering me. She just kept grimacing and moaning. Then all of a sudden she said "it is gone, it has left me and I am totally healed." She just felt something leave her and said that the expression of pain was not from sickness pain but high voltage electricity flowing thru her body. Hallelujah!!

While we were dancing and praising, a little girl wanted me to hug her. I stopped, and did hug her and tears came to her eyes and she was trying to tell me something in their native language, but I wasn't getting the interpretation. This went on a few times during praise. During the prayer time when I had gotten down on the ground she showed up in front of me again. This time I asked my interpreter what she was saying. I got down on my knees in the dirt to be at her height so I could look her in the eyes. By this time there was a crowd so big around me, and pressed in so tight, that the coolness of the night mountain air changed to sweat from all the body heat. My interpreter said "she has been trying to tell you that she is paralyzed on her right side and wants you to pray for her!" How did I miss that? Her hand was fixed solid in a fist, her wrist was twisted at 90 degrees and her arm and leg were pretty much lifeless. She was just dragging her little leg around. We prayed and I felt the wrist bones realign and the elbow loosen and she could lift her arm up, then her knee started working and she was swinging her leg like normal. Then she wanted to hug me some more. Then Casey came and helped finish up the fisted fingers till they were open and functioning.

One more: A young man pressed thru the crowd with a look of desperation on his face. He said that he was up working in a tree today and fell out. He landed on his right side and damaged his hip, arm, shoulder and wrist. Looked like there was some broken stuff. He came here before going to the hospital. Oh, as a side note, I saw a sign posted in the local hospital that was a listing of prices they were charging. Get this: Minor surgery cost $20 US and Major surgery cost $75 US. Now to fix this guy with all that was busted up would have cost him $75 US, but this bill was prepaid by Jesus. I watched in a moment of time, this guy get all these busted up body parts fixed. He literally flipped out! He started jumping and hollering the Name of Jesus and then ran off at high speed.

Casey:

It's hard to believe that each day we are here, the power and anointing keeps getting stronger. It just goes to prove there is no end to God. Each village we go to is quite different but the hunger level is all the same. Today during the teaching session on working with the Holy Spirit and how to pray for someone, when Tony asked for volunteers to come pray they would jump up real fast to make sure they beat everyone else. They all wanted to see Jesus use them for healing. They were so excited to see that they too could lay hands on a sick person and they would be healed. When we ran out of sick people and the ones that were having pain we ended the session with praying for impartation.

It was almost lunch time so we went on a search for the internet to send out the reports from this trip. Well we ended up driving several villages away to the only one that had power. When we arrived we quickly learned their power was off as well. The local hospital runs on backup generator so we headed there next to see if we could use one of their computers. Well for whatever reason that didn't work so we went back to the first place we stopped at. We waited for the power to come back on. We take for granted what we have back home so much even the simple things that we don't even pay attention to until they are gone.

The crusade tonight was real fun and the setting was awesome. Behind the stage were these huge boulders and a bunch of children were all sitting up there. It looked like the nose bleed section at a hockey game, but I'm guessing they could see real good. Looking forward, off the stage, you could see down into the valley where you crossover into Kenya. The sheer beauty of this place is incredible.

Tony had me do the message again tonight so I gave them a quick word and we got right into praying for healing. Again tonight, I teamed up with one of the worship leaders from Bumbo. She made the journey down to where we are now when she was finished with school. She is really being used by the Holy Spirit and is even now going off on her own and praying for the sick. To me, it is so cool to see the youth get blasted like this, get them God! So as we were praying for the sick, Betty and I, well I call her Betty because I can't say her real name but Betty is in there somewhere mixed up with a bunch of other words. Anyway, as we were praying we got into this string of deaf children. I don't know if they all came together as a group or it just worked out that way. So, I was telling Betty to just lay her hand over the ears and command that deaf spirit to go and speak life and sound into the ears. So she did, it was only a prayer of a few seconds and BAM her first deaf person was now hearing. She was so excited she looked at me and said "did you see that!" We had twelve children in all that all received their hearing tonight. God is soooo good. We also prayed for several people that were sick from malaria and after prayer they said they felt good and were no longer sick. Again we had a bunch of stomachaches and backaches that all were healed as well. We prayed well into the dark until everyone that needed prayer got it. To finish off the evening Tony had prayed for this small girl that was paralyzed in her right hand, wrist and leg. For the most part she was moving everything pretty good but we gave her a second shot of the anointing. As we prayed again her fingers began to loosen more and more until they were all straight and her wrist was now moving. This small girl was so sweet she didn't want to leave she could feel the love of Jesus being poured out all over her. It's hard to believe we only have two more days here. Thank you again for praying for us on this trip you guys rock, Blessings. LATER

Fredrick:

A young man came with multiple pains in his body and I asked him if he was born again, he said yes. Then I asked him to lift up his hands and breathe in and out as he confessed that Jesus was his healer and Lord. Thereafter I asked him if he was healed. He was shocked and said Yes. As we were standing there near the pulpit, everyone was waiting there to go up to be prayed for by Tony and Casey. I felt I needed to get an interpreter to help me. I found her. Then I got a woman with stomach and back aches. Just as I put my hands on her she was INSTANTLY healed. I didn't even pray yet! As soon as that happened then the other people around that were waiting for Tony and Casey got in line for Emily and I to pray now. All that we prayed for were healed. The only we didn't know was a 6 year old boy that momma said didn't eat, walk, talk or do anything for himself. The child never woke up and the mother would not wake the child up so we will see on this one.

This prayer is unlike I have ever seen before. The power and anointing has become so great. It is really INSTANT in the sense that the sick person begins to feel the relief just by coming near and many times total healing even before we pray. This is truly the Glory of God come to man!
